About the Lexicon

The translations in this lexicon are derived from the author's Mechanical Translation of the Torah (<http://www.mechanical-translation.org>).

Words in all upper case letters are the translation of Hebrew words. These words can also be found in the Dictionary of Hebrew Words, which provides a definition of the word as well as this words identifying number in the author's Ancient Hebrew Lexicon of the Bible (AHLB) and Strong's Dictionary. Note that some of the entries in this lexicon may have more than one translation due to one Hebrew word that may have multiple meanings.

Words in all lower case letters are affixes (prefixes, suffixes and infixes) that are added to the root stem. These words are found in the Dictionary of affixes where each affix is defined.

Words where only the first letter is capitalized are names and they can be found in the Dictionary of Names where a translation of the name is provided.

About the Hebrew Language

The language of the Ancient Hebrews is closely related to their agricultural and nomadic lifestyle. Each word must be understood through this culture rather than from our own modern western Greco-Roman culture. As an example, the Hebrew word מִצְוָה (mitsvah) is usually translated as a command or commandment in most other translations but hebraically means the directions given to guide one on the journey. Hence, this word will be translated in the MT as “direction.”

Hebraic thought differs from our own process of thinking, in that the Hebrews were concrete thinkers in contrast to our own abstract way of thinking. Concrete thought relates all words, concepts and ideas to something that can be sensed by the five senses. For instance, the Hebrew word אֵף (aph) is the nose or nostrils, but is the same word for anger, since one who is angry will flare the nostrils.

At times you are going to come across a word in this translation that seems to make absolutely no sense. This is mostly due to the differences between our modern Greco-Roman perspective of thought and that of the ancient Hebrew's. Also keep in mind that each Hebrew word is translated exactly the same way every time, so there will be instances when the word seems out of context. What you will need to do is study that word and the context in which it is used, so you can better understand its Hebraic meaning. Once this has been done, the word and the verse itself will come to life in ways never before perceived.

Hebrew words, verbs, nouns, adjectives, etc., are best defined through a visual action. The Hebrew root אָקַע is used for the noun eqev meaning the heel, the verb aqav meaning to restrain in the sense of grabbing the heel to hold one back, and the adjective eyqev meaning ‘because’ or ‘since,’ through the concept of one idea in a sentence being on the heel of another idea within the sentence.

The Root System of Hebrew Words

The vocabulary of the Hebrew language is a system of roots and words. The most basic root is the parent or two-letter root. An example is the parent root  $\text{ל} \text{ב}$  (E.L. el), which means “mighty one.” This word is often translated as “God” or “god” in other translations.

Child or three-letter roots are derived by placing an aleph ( $\text{א}$ ), hey ( $\text{ה}$ ), vav ( $\text{ו}$ ) or yud ( $\text{י}$ )<sup>1</sup> in front, in the middle or at the end of the parent root. An example of a child root derived from the parent root  $\text{ל} \text{ב}$  (E.L. el) is  $\text{א} \text{ל} \text{ב}$  (A.L.H) from which the verb  $\text{א} \text{ל} \text{ב}$  (A.L.H) meaning “to take an oath” and  $\text{א} \text{ל} \text{ה}$  (a’lah) meaning an “oath” are derived. Another child root derived from the same parent root is  $\text{ל} \text{א} \text{ב}$  (A.Y.L) from which the noun  $\text{ל} \text{א} \text{ב}$  (ayil) meaning a “buck” and  $\text{א} \text{י} \text{ל} \text{א} \text{ב}$  (ay’ya’lah) meaning a “doe” are derived. Another form of child root is where the last letter of the parent root is doubled, so that from the parent root  $\text{ל} \text{ב}$  (el) would come the child root  $\text{ל} \text{ל} \text{ב}$  (A.L.L); however, this root is not used in the Hebrew Bible.

Another three-letter root is the adopted root, which is derived by adding a Hebrew consonant to the parent root in the same way that the child root does. An example of an adopted root is the root  $\text{פ} \text{ל} \text{ב}$  (A.L.P), which is derived from the parent root  $\text{ל} \text{ב}$  (el) by adding the consonant  $\text{פ}$  (p) to the end. From this adopted root comes the verb  $\text{פ} \text{ל} \text{ב}$  (A.L.P) meaning “to learn,” the noun  $\text{פ} \text{ל} \text{ב}$

<sup>1</sup> In Ancient Hebrew these four letters doubled as consonants or vowels, as does the letter “y” in the English language. The “y” can be used as a consonant, as in the word “yellow,” or as a vowel, as in the word “fly.”

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

(eleph) meaning a bovine, and the noun אֵלֶּף (aluph) meaning a “chief.”

When studying Hebrew words, it is essential that you understand a word within the context of its roots to provide a much clearer picture of the meaning of the word. This is the purpose of the lexicon included in this book, which groups all of the Hebrew words found in the Torah according to their root words.

The Verb

A verb describes an action, such as the word “cut” in the sentence, “Jacob cut a tree.” Each Hebrew verb can be written with different moods and voices. For example, the active voice of the verb רָאָה (ra’ah) means to “see” but, the passive voice, identified by the prefix “be~,” means “be seen” but is translated as “appeared” in the RMT. As another example, the simple mood of the verb בָּאוּ (bo) means to “come” but, the causative mood, identified by the prefix “make~,” means “make come” but, is translated as “bring” in the RMT.

Tense

There are four tenses in Hebrew verbs, perfect, imperfect, participle and imperative. In the English language the verb tenses are related to time; past, present and future, while the Hebrew verbs are all related to action. The perfect tense is a completed action and in most cases is related to the English past tense (he cut). The imperfect tense is an incomplete action and is closely related to the English present and future tenses (he cuts or he will cut). The participle can be a current action or one who performs the action (a cutting or cutter). The imperative identifies the action, similar to a command, with no reference to the subject (cut!). When the prefix וַ (waw) meaning “and” is attached to the verb, the verb tense (perfect or imperfect) reverses. For this reason this letter, when used in this context, is called the reversing or consecutive waw.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

Below are a few common verb conjugations of the Hebrew verb  $\text{שמע}$  (Sh-M-Ah)<sup>2</sup>. The bold letters are the prefixes and suffixes which identify the tense, person, and gender of the subject of the verb.

Table 1 – Perfect Tense Verbs

$\text{שמעתי}$	shamatiy	I heard
$\text{שמעת}$	shamata	you heard
$\text{שמע}$	shama	he heard
$\text{שמעה}$	shamah	she heard

Table 2 – Imperfect Tense Verbs

$\text{שמעתי}$	eshma	I will hear
$\text{שמעת}$	tishma	you will hear
$\text{שמעתי}$	yishma	he will hear
$\text{שמעת}$	tishma	she will hear

<sup>2</sup> I should note that Hebrew verb stems, such as  $\text{שמע}$ , are not actual words and cannot be pronounced until they are conjugated. Therefore, I will simply transliterate each letter of the verb stems. For the verb stem  $\text{שמע}$  this will be “Sh” for the letter shin ( $\text{ש}$ ), “M” for the letter mem ( $\text{מ}$ ) and “Ah” for the letter ayin ( $\text{ע}$ ).

Voice

Each Hebrew verb includes voice of which there are three: active, passive or reflexive. The active voice identifies the action of the verb as coming from the subject (he cut). The passive voice does not identify the origin of action placed on the subject of the verb (he was cut). The reflexive voice places the action of the verb onto the subject (he cut himself).

Mood

Each verb also includes mood of which there are three: simple, intensive or causative. The simple mood is simple action of the verb (he cut). The intensive mood implies force or emphasis on the verb (he slashed or hacked). The causative mood expresses causation to the verb (“he made a cut” or “he caused a cut”).

The voice and mood of a verb is identified by seven different forms as shown in the table below:

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

Table 3 – Verb Forms

Form	Mood	Voice	Example
Pa'al <sup>3</sup>	Simple	Active	He cut
Niphal	Simple	Passive	He was cut
Pi'el	Intensive	Active	He slashed
Pu'al	Intensive	Passive	He was slashed
Hiphil	Causative	Active	He made cut
Hophal	Causative	Passive	He was made cut
Hitpa'el	Intensive	Reflexive	He slashed himself

Below are a few common suffixes (in bold letters) that identify the object of a verb.

Table 4 – Suffixes

	shelahhany	he sent me
	shal'hhekha	he sent you
	shelahho	he sent him

Besides the “simple” verbs (called qal verbs) used above, seven other verb forms are used that slightly change the meaning of the verb. However, we will only look at the three most common. The niphal is the passive form and adds the prefixed letter (ni). The

<sup>3</sup> Also called the “qal” form.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

hiphil is the causative form and adds the prefixed letter פ (hi) and the letter ד (iy) as an infix. The Hitpa'el is the reflexive form and adds the prefixed letters תפ (hit).

Table 5 – Niphil, Hiphil and Hitpa'el verb forms

Niphil	שׁוּפָדֵשׁ	niq'dash	he was special
Hiphil	שׁוּדָפֵדֵשׁ	hiq'diysh	he caused to be special
Hitpa'el	שׁוּתָפֵדֵשׁ	hit'qa'desh	he made himself special

A few other verb forms differ from those we have previously discussed. The first is the infinitive verb, which does not include a tense (perfect or imperfect), subject or object of the verb. It only identifies the action, such as “listen.” The second is the imperative, which like the infinitive, does not include a tense or object, but it does identify the gender and number of the subject as well as the action of the verb, but more as a command, such as “listen!” The third is the participle, which is used much like our present tense verbs in English, such as “listening.” Below are examples of these verb forms.

Table 6 – Infinitive, Imperative and Participle verb forms

Infinitive	שׁמַע	shamo	listen
Imperative	שׁמַע	shema	listen!
Participle	שׁוֹמַע	shomey	listening

While all of this appears complex and confusing at first, it should be noted that the majority of the Hebrew verbs in the Bible are written in the pa'al form and in the perfect tense, third person, masculine, singular.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

The Verb, Subject and Object

In English, the general order of words is: subject of the verb, verb and then object of the verb. As an example, using the RMT from Genesis 1:12, we have the sentence, “and the land brought out grass.” The word “land” is the subject of the verb, “brought out” is the verb” and “grass” is the object of the verb. In Hebrew, this order is slightly different. The general order of Hebrew sentences is: verb, subject of the verb and then the object of the verb. The Hebrew behind the English sentence above is  $\text{וַיֵּצֵא הָאֲדָמָה עֵשְׂבָת}$ . The first word,  $\text{וַיֵּצֵא}$ , is the verb, the second word,  $\text{הָאֲדָמָה}$ , is the subject of the verb and the third word,  $\text{עֵשְׂבָת}$ , is the object of the verb.

Hebrew gender

All Hebrew pronouns will be translated as “he” or “she.” This may appear strange at first, as a word like “ground,” a feminine word, will be identified as a “she” (see 4:12). This is an important issue as knowing the correct gender of a pronoun can influence interpretation. A classic example is found in 4:7 where most translations read, “...sin is crouching at the door; its desire is for you.” It is usually assumed the word “its” is referring to the word “sin” but, knowing that the word “sin” is a feminine word and “its” is a masculine pronoun we discover that the word “its” cannot be referring to the “sin.”

Hebrew genders should not be viewed in the same manner we view gender. For instance, the word “beast” is a feminine word and any pronoun associated with this word will be a “she” with no regard to the actual gender of the beast.

Hebrew grammar uses the masculine form of nouns and pronouns for a group of mixed genders. For instance, in 36:25 the “sons” (masculine plural) of Anah are identified as Dishon (a male) and Ahalivamah (a female).

The Noun

The most common noun form is the use of the two or three letter root. From the parent root אב (av), meaning a tent pole, comes the noun אב (av) meaning "father." As was mentioned previously, all nouns are action oriented and the full understanding of the noun אב is "the one who holds up the tent/house." Just as the tent pole supports the tent, the father supports the family within the tent. The root פתח (P.T.Hh) is the base for the verb פתח (patahh) meaning "to open" and the noun פתח (petahh) meaning a door.

Noun Derivatives

Additional nouns are also formed out of the base root by adding specific letters as prefixes, infixes and suffixes, in specific places within the root. The noun derivative פתח מפתח (maph'teach) meaning 'a key' is formed by adding the letter מ to the front of the noun פתח (petahh - a door). Some of the most common noun derivatives are formed by placing a מ (m) or ת (t) before the root or a י (i) or ו (o or u) within the root.

Feminine Derivatives

In Hebrew all nouns are either masculine or feminine. In most cases the nouns and noun derivatives are masculine and are converted into feminine nouns by adding one of four suffixes; ח (ah), ת (et), ות (owt), or ית (iyt). Generally, masculine nouns are concrete while feminine nouns are abstract.

Combination Derivatives

Additional noun derivatives are formed by combining different prefixes, infixes and suffixes. The four feminine suffixes can also be added to any of the other noun derivatives resulting in a wide variety of possible nouns.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

Plural Nouns

Nouns are made plural by adding the suffix יָם (iyim) or וֹת (ot). Generally the יָם is used for masculine nouns and וֹת for feminine nouns. In some cases masculine words, usually very ancient words, will use the וֹת suffix. The Hebrew words אָב (av - father) and אוֹר (or - light) are masculine words but are written as אָבוֹת and אוֹרוֹת in the plural. In all modern languages the plural is always quantitative, while in Ancient Hebrew a plural can be quantitative or qualitative. An example of this is the word תַּיִם (behemoth – see Job 40:15). This word is the plural form of the singular בְּהֵמָה (behemah), meaning beast, but refers to a very large beast rather than more than one beast. One of the most common uses of the qualitative plural is the word אֱלֹהִים (elohiyim) which can be translated as “gods” (quantitative) or as “God” (qualitative).

Grammatical Tools

Hebrew uses nouns for other functions within the sentence. They can be used as adjectives, adverbs, prepositions, conjunctions, etc. The noun עָקֵב (eqev) can be the “heel” of the foot but, it can also mean “because” in the sense of being on the heel of the previous phrase. Because the Ancient Hebrew language does not make distinctions between these types of words, the Lexicon lists them all as nouns and noun derivatives.

Articles, Conjunctions and Prepositions

Specific letters are used in Hebrew to represent the article, conjunction, and preposition and are prefixed to nouns (and sometimes verbs). Below are all of these prefixes (in bold) attached to the Hebrew noun אֲרֵצוֹת (erets, Strong’s #776):

Table 7 – Articles, Conjunctions and Prepositions

Article	הַ אֲרֵצוֹת	ha'arets	the land
Conjunction	וְ אֲרֵצוֹת	va'arets	and a land

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

Preposition	לְאֶרֶץ	la'arets	to a land
Preposition	בְּאֶרֶץ	be'ere'ts	in a land
Preposition	מֵאֶרֶץ	me'ere'ts	from a land
Preposition	כְּאֶרֶץ	ke'ere'ts	like a land

Adjectives

An adjective is a word that provides description to a noun. For instance, the Hebrew word טוֹב (good) is a common adjective that can be found in the following phrase meaning “good day.”

טוֹב יוֹם (yom tov)

Notice that in Hebrew the adjective follows the noun which it describes. If the noun is prefixed by the article הַ (ha), then the adjective will be as well, such as we see in the next phrase meaning “the good mountain.”

טוֹב הַהָר (hahar hatov)

The adjective will also match the gender of the noun. In the last two examples, the words יוֹם and הָר are masculine nouns therefore; the masculine form טוֹב is used. The word אֶרֶץ (land) is a feminine word so the feminine adjective טוֹבָה is used in the following phrase meaning “good land.”

טוֹבָה אֶרֶץ (erets tovah)

The adjective will also match the number (singular or plural) of the noun. In each of our previous examples, the singular form of the word טוֹב is being used because the nouns it describes are singular.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

In the phrase, meaning “good houses,” the word בתי (house) is written in the plural form, therefore the adjective is as well.

בתי טובים (batiym toviym)

Hebrew Pronunciation

Vowels

Four of the Hebrew letters double as consonants and vowels. These are the א (aleph), ה (hey), ו (waw) and the י (yud). The aleph can be a glottal stop (silent pause) or the vowel sound “a.” The letter hey has an “h” sound as a consonant or an “e” sound as a vowel. The waw is a “w” as a consonant or an “o” or “u” as a vowel. The yud is a “y” as a consonant or an “i” as a vowel. The waw and the yud are the two most commonly used as vowels in Hebrew words. When the waw appears at the beginning of a syllable, it will use the consonantal “w” sound. The same is true for the yud, which will use the consonantal “y” when at the beginning of a syllable.

Another type of vowel is the implied vowel sounds. This means that the vowel is not written but is necessary in order to pronounce the word. An example of this is the word אור (grain) which consists of the two consonant B and R and cannot be pronounced without a vowel between them. In most cases the implied vowel will be an “a” or an “e.” In this case the implied vowel is the “a” and the word אור is pronounced “BaR.”

Spirants and Stops

A spirant is a letter whose sound can be prolonged. Some examples of this from the English language are the v, z, f, and sh. A stop is a letter whose sound ends abruptly such as the b, p, d and t. A few of the Hebrew letters will have a different pronunciation depending on their position within the word. The letter ב will usually be pronounced as a stop (b) when at the beginning of the word, and as a spirant (v) when it is anywhere else in the word. For example, the word אור is pronounced “baR” while the word אור is pronounced

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

“rav.” Another letter that will change is the letter kaph – כּ. When at the beginning of a word it will be pronounced as a stop (k).

Otherwise it will be pronounced as a spirant (kh – pronounced like the ch in the name Bach). The only other letter that will change is the letter peh – פּ. When at the beginning of a word, it will be a stop (p); otherwise it will be a spirant (ph).

Syllables

There are two types of syllables, open and closed. A closed syllable will include a consonant-vowel-consonant combination while an open syllable will have a vowel-consonant combination. The vowel may be one of the four consonant/vowel letters, usually the yud (י) or the waw (ו or וּ) or an implied vowel. In most cases the final syllable will be a closed syllable. The word כּוּנְנִית (covenant) will have two syllables. The first is וּנִי, an open syllable pronounced “be,” and the second is כּוּנְנִי a closed syllable pronounced “riyt.”

Generally, a word with three consonants will be divided as Cv-CvC. A word with four consonants will be divided as Cv-Cv-CvC or CvC-CvC. When a word includes five consonants, the breakdown is usually Cv-Cv-Cv-CvC or CvC-Cv-CvC.

If the word includes one of the four consonant/vowel letters, its position within the word will determine if it is used as a consonant or a vowel. Generally, when the consonant/vowel is placed at the beginning of a syllable or the end of a closed syllable, it will take on the consonantal sound. When it is in the middle of a closed syllable or the end of an open syllable, it will take on the vowel sound.

Ancient Hebrew Speech

Each culture has its own unique style of speech where words and phrases are used that are not meant to be literal and can only be understood correctly if one is familiar with the style of speech used. If these unique words and phrases are heard or read literally, a completely different meaning will be assumed that was not intended by the author.

Idioms

An idiom is defined as “a manner of expression peculiar to a given language, culture or people whose meanings cannot be understood through the context of the words alone.” We use idiomatic words and phrases all the time without realizing that we are doing it. Below are just a few examples of idioms peculiar to the English language of America involving parts of the body.

I bent over backwards. (I tried everything.)
Let me give you a hand. (Let me help.)
I put my nose to the grindstone. (I worked hard.)
I spilled his guts. (I told everything.)
You’re pulling my leg. (You’re joking.)
He’s shooting his mouth off. (He’s saying too much.)
Break a leg. (Good luck.)
My ears are burning. (Someone is talking about me.)
My head is spinning (This is too much for me to think about.)
I have a hollow leg. (I eat a lot.)
I’m dragging my feet (I’m procrastinating.)
I’m pulling my hair out. (I’m frustrated.)
Hold your tongue. (Don't say anything.)

When someone from another culture hears or reads these idioms, there is no possible way to comprehend the meaning unless an outside source is consulted for interpretation. To demonstrate how difficult it is to interpret an idiom, consider the following idiom from Mexico, “The farmer went into the field and hung up his tennis shoes.”

When we read that sentence we envision a farmer going out into the field and hanging his shoes up in a tree or fence post or something like that. It’s impossible for us to understand this passage without an outside source. The phrase “hung up his tennis shoes” is equivalent to our idiom “kicked the bucket.” In other words, he died.

Below are a few idioms found within the Torah.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

face fell = sad (Genesis 4:5)
heart lifted up = proud (Deuteronomy 8.14) knew no quiet in the belly = greedy (Job 20.20)
open the ear = inform (Job 33.16) right hand = mighty (Psalms 89.13) hide the face = refuse to answer (Ps 102.2) bad eye = stingy (Proverbs 28.22) good eye = generous (Proverbs 22.9)
hard forehead = stubborn (Ezekiel 3.7)

Euphamisms

A euphemism is the use of one word in place of another such as the common Euphemisms used today in our culture.

dough = money

Just as in the case of idioms, the true meaning in Hebrew cannot be understood unless one is familiar with the euphemism. For example, take Psalms 24:7 which reads:

“Lift up your heads, O you gates”

How does a gate lift up its head? The word “gate” is a euphemism for a “judge.” The cities in Israel were often surrounded by walls. At the gates of these walls the judges would hold court. Hence, the judges were called “gates.”

Gender

All Hebrew nouns, verbs, adjectives and most pronouns identify gender, either masculine or feminine, such as we can see in the first two verses of Genesis:

In the beginning God (m.) created (m.) the sky (m.) and the land (f.) and the land (f.) was (f.) empty and void and the Spirit (f.) of God (m.) hovered (f.) over the face (m.) of the deep.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

The identity of a word's gender is essential in translation as well as in interpretation. Take Genesis 4:7 as an example:

If thou doest well, shall it not be lifted up? and if thou doest not well, sin coucheth at the door: and unto thee shall be its desire, but do thou rule over it. (ASV, Genesis 4:7)

The most common interpretation of this verse is that Cain is told that he must control the sin. While this verse is translated appropriately, this interpretation is incorrect because the translation has erased the genders of the verse. Below is the same verse, but adding the gender according to the Hebrew:

If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, sin lieth at the door. And unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him. (KJV, Genesis 4:7)

While the ASV uses the word "it" the Hebrew would literally be translated as "him" as seen in the KJV. There is no "it" in Hebrew; all things are either a "him/he" or a "her/she." The verse says that Cain is to control "him," and since "sin" is a feminine word, sin cannot be the "him."

Ancient Hebrew Styles of Writing

Just as it is important to understand how the Hebrews thought and spoke, it is just as important to know how they wrote. Their style of writing is different from what we are used to, yet we attempt to read the ancient Hebrew texts as if they were written by one of our contemporary writers. This again causes a mistranslation as well as misinterpretations of the text. Therefore, it is essential to learn the unique styles of writing employed by the Hebrews in order to read the texts correctly.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

Hebrew Poetry

There are several different types of Hebrew poetry.

As Hebrew poetry differs greatly from our own Western style of poetry, many do not recognize the poetry when they read it. This can cause problems when translating or interpreting these passages.

Approximately 75% of the Tenakh (Old Testament) is poetry. All of Psalms and Proverbs are Hebrew poetry. Even the book of Genesis is filled with Poetry. The Hebrews used poetry for several reasons. Much of the Torah was sung and was easier to sing. Also, poetry and songs are easier to memorize than straight texts. Parallel poetry (as in Genesis 1) emphasizes something of great importance, as is the creation story. The rabbis believed that “if something is worth saying, it is worth saying beautifully.” There is much more poetry in the Bible than most people realize because most do not recognize or understand it.

Parallelism

Parallelism is most commonly found in the book of Psalms and Proverbs but is found throughout the entire Hebrew Bible. Parallelism is the expression of one idea in two or more ways.

“Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light for my path.” (Psalms 119:105)

The above example of a simple parallel and can be written in this manner;

Your word is;

1. a lamp to my feet
2. a light for my path

Here we see that the words “lamp” and “light” are paralleled as well as the words “my feet” and “my path.” Below is another example of this style of poetry.

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

“My son, my teachings you shall not forget and my commands your heart shall guard.” (Proverbs 3:1)

In this verse the words “my teachings” is paralleled with “my commands” and “you shall not forget” is paralleled with “your heart shall guard” and can be written as follows.

My son;

1. my teachings you shall not forget
2. my commands your heart shall guard

Below is Psalm 15:1-3 broken down into its poetic sequences. In this example each thought is represented by the letters A, B, C and D. Each expression of a thought is represented by the numbers 1 and 2.

- A1. Lord, who may dwell in your sanctuary?
A2. Who may live on your holy hill?
B1. He whose walk is blameless
B2. and who does what is righteous.
C1. who speaks the truth from his heart
C2. and has no slander on his tongue.
D1. who does his neighbor no wrong
D2. and casts no slur on his fellow man.

Another common form of parallelism is the use of negatives where two opposing ideas are stated, as we see in Proverbs 11:19:

- A1. Righteousness brings one to life
A2. Pursuit of evil brings one to his death.

In Genesis 12:1 we can see the poetry of God's command to Abraham to leave his hometown in three different ways:

- Leave
- a. from your land
  - b. and from your people
  - c. and from the house of your father
- and go to the land I will show you.

And

In the Western style of writing, an account is broken up into sentences. Each thought is written and closed with a period. The Eastern style of writing on the other hand continues a sentence dividing each thought with the word “and.” Below is a translation of Genesis 1:3-8 retaining the “and” as found in the Hebrew:

and God said let there be light and there was light and God saw that the light was good and God separated between the light and the darkness and God called the light day and the darkness he called night and there was an evening and there was a morning a first day and God said let there be an expanse between the water and let there be a separation between the waters from the waters and God made the expanse and God separated between the waters under the expanse and the waters above the expanse and it was so and God called the expanse sky and it was evening and it was morning a second day.*

The use of the word “and” within the text must be kept in mind when reading Biblical accounts, as it may influence the interpretation of the story. For example, in Exodus 17:7 we read:

And he called the name of the place Massah, and Meribah, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, Is the LORD among us, or not? (KJV)

In most translations this verse ends the paragraph and a new paragraph begins with verse 8:

Then came Amalek, and fought with Israel in Rephidim. (KJV)

Ancient Hebrew Torah Lexicon

The format of these two passages implies two separate events. But, if the word “and,” as found in the Hebrew, is inserted between the two, the passages become related, as we see here.

And he called the name of the place Massah, and Meribah, because of the chiding of the children of Israel, and because they tempted the LORD, saying, Is the LORD among us, or not? And Amalek came and fought with Israel in Rephidim.

When read the passage in this manner, it appears that Amalek came and attacked as a result of their “chiding” and “tempting” of God.

While the removal of the word “and” can cause some misinterpretations of the text, misinterpretations can also be made when it remains in the translation:

So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life. (KJV, Genesis 3:24)

The use of the word “and” between “Cherubims” and “a flaming sword” suggest two objects guarding the tree of life. Hebrew, on the other hand, will frequently use the word “and” between two identifiers of the same thing such as in the following passage:

Hearken unto the voice of my cry, my King, and my God: for unto thee will I pray. (KJV, Psalm 5:2)

In this passage, the words “king” and “God” are two names for one person. In the same manner the words “Cherubim” and “flaming sword” are two words for the same thing. It should also be noted that the Hebrew for Cherubim and sword are almost identical.
